He Takes His Hard Luck With a

The last testimony in the examination of H. J. McNuity on a charge of forgery was read in the 4 o'clock session of the golice court yesterday afternoon, and Judge Hangerty held the prisoner for trial in the superior court. McNuity is for return charged with forging a check for $18.25, which was passed upon J. E. Rice in the Bridge Street house.

McNuity is one of the few prisoners in the hent county jail who can keep clean His personal appearance is always neat, his clothes well brushed and his linen spotless. He has waged an unequal con-test with the vermin in the jail for the past four weeks, but shows no effects of sojourn in the dirt and filth of the old rookery. His cell is the best kept in the ail, and his appearance is in striking In the corridor.

In the corridor.

McNulty took Judge Haggerty's declaion to heart yesterday, for he confidently expected to besdischarged. "I don't care so much about myself as I do about my wife," said he rather gloomily last night. "It is killing her; poor girl. She has been in poor health for a year and a half now, and this is more than and a haif now, and this is more than she can stand. She was here for a few days, but she has gone back to Detroit now. I've been hoping to get bail ever since I've been here, but I guess I have no friends in the city except my attorneys. I suppose I'll he here until my trial, and fight the vermin.

This is the first time I was ever charged with taking a cent that didn't being to me," continued the prisoner rather hitterly. "I've been a traveling man for seventeen years now, and have handled thousands of dollars for the concerns I have worked for, and here I am charged with forging a check for a pairry eighteen dollars.

McNusty is a man about 36 years old, with blue eyes, dark hair and a heavy brown mustache. His face is frank and honest, and he bears none of the earmorks of a man of questionable honesty. Lp to the time of his arrest he was in the employ of P. F. Colling & Co. of Detroit, local publishers. McNulty has lived in Detroit for the past nine years.
